MADRID

From Madrid to Heaven! It is one of the most popular sayings about the city. The sky of Madrid has an intense blue colour that makes it characteristic.

It is the Spanish capital since 1561 and it is home to important institutions of the State as it is the central government's headquarters. Moreover, it is the official residence of the Spanish monarchs and some national bodies, such as the Spanish Royal Academy, and of international bodies like the World Tourism Organization.

The Spanish capital is a cosmopolitan city that combines the most modern infrastructures with its status of economic, financial, administrative and service centre. Madrid has an outstanding transportation network, which makes easier the access by road, airplane, train or metro, and it has one of the best local public transport services in the World.

The Adolfo Suárez Madrid-Barajas airport, which it is the main mean of access to Spain and the main departure and arrival airport to South America, is one of the most important airports in the World regarding the number of passengers.

With a vast artistic and cultural patrimony, heritage of several centuries of a rich and passionate history, Madrid has been witness to the birth of celebrated and universal figures such as Lope de Vega, Calderón de la Barca, Francisco de Quevedo, Jacinto Benavente, Jardiel Poncela, José Ortega y Gasset, Gregorio Marañón, Juan Gris, Juan de Villanueva, Ruperto Chapí, Federico Chueca and Joaquín Rodrigo, among others, and many other intellectuals, artists and other famous celebrities that lived in the city.

Madrid is an open city for who is willing to discover it, where culture, gastronomic, business, leisure and entertainment activities are blended, being one of the most strong and diverse tourist attraction in Europe and in the World. Probably there is not a city like Madrid with so many things to do and visit being so close to each other.

A PIECE OF LIVING HISTORY: “MADRID DE LOS AUSTRIAS” (HABSBURG MADRID)

Madrid possesses one of the most important historic centres in Europe, also known as “Madrid de los Austrias” (Habsburg Madrid). It is located around the “Plaza Mayor” (Main square), inaugurated in 1620, and the “Plaza de la Villa” (Village square), which is the old City Hall headquarters.

Near “Plaza Mayor” you can take a walk feeling like a king until the so-called “aristocratic centre” of Madrid, where you can discover the beauty of the Royal Palace (“Palacio Real”), the “Plaza de Oriente”, the Opera house or the Almudena Cathedral. This is the Madrid of the Bourbons (“Borbones”).

I would recommend you to visit the “Mercado de San Miguel” (San Michael’s Market) at aperitif time, where it is currently in vogue to have “Tapas”, buy top quality food, or even buy the current bestseller novel.

RECALL THE TWELVE GRAPES

Following the “Calle Mayor” you will find the “Puerta del Sol”, with its “Km 0”, 100 year old shops and the large clock where many Spanish people see the new year in. Take a picture with the bear and the strawberry tree statue (“El oso y el Madroño”), the symbol of the city.

It is about time to do some shopping: from here, and in streets like Preciados or Gran Vía, you will find a large number of stores, department stores and shopping malls where you can find the ultimate technology.

THE BEST MUSEUMS IN THE WORLD

Among this cultural offering, three world's top art galleries should be highlighted: Prado Museum, Thyssen-Bornemisza Museum and Reina Sofía Museum, forming what is called The Art Walk.

Enjoy a pleasant walk through its gardens and you will be able to contemplate the historic buildings and monuments that shine out with their own light, with Cibeles and Neptuno fountains, the Bank of Spain, the Palace of Communications (the current headquarters of Madrid city council) and the "Puerta de Alcalá".

STREET CULTURE

The most monumental Madrid is represented by the "Plaza Mayor", the "Plaza de Oriente", the National Library, the Royal Palace or the Jerónimos Church. And do not forget the municipalities and surroundings around it.

Great cultural centres, such as the "Círculo de Bellas Artes" (Fine Arts Circle), "La casa encendida" (House on fire), Conde Duque Cultural Centre, Caixa Forum or the Casa de América have become the movers and shakers of Madrid's culture. With fairs like the Book Fair of Madrid, the Contemporary Art Fair (ARCO) or PHotoEspaña, Madrid becomes a national and an international spotlight.

Culture is also felt on the streets of Madrid, a wide range of activities are promoted which surprises both people of Madrid and visitors. There are a lot of spontaneous activities everywhere, contributing to the life of Madrid. For example, the traditional puppet theatre in the Retiro Park, that every weekend delights the younger children. Annually events such as Theatre Night, Museum Night or Book Night, allow all those who wish to do so to enjoy the culture up to early hours.

A TRIBUTE TO THE PALATE

The gastronomy of Madrid is something that you cannot miss either. It is very typical to have "Cocido Madrileño" and "Tapas" in any of the traditional bars, where a stop is required in order to restock on energy and keep on touring the city. Madrid is able to satisfy any demand. It has more than 10,000 restaurants, 40,000 bars and 3,000 cafes. A wide range of establishments represent the best of the Madrid's cuisine, as well as national and international cuisine due to the strategic positioning of Madrid. According to the most prestigious gastronomic guides, Madrid has the highest recognized quality. This fact makes Madrid the most important city in Europe when it comes to gastronomy and cuisine.

There are many Michelin-starred restaurants, the highest award in this sector, thanks to chefs like David Muñoz (Diverxo), Sergi Arola, Mario Sandoval, Diego Guerrero, Óscar Velasco, Ricardo Sanz, Ramón Freixa, Paco Roncero and Juan Antonio Medina. All of them are international benchmarks of the Spanish creative cuisine, which have made Madrid and our region their refuge.

But if you prefer tradition, you must visit our centenary restaurants, such as the Taberna Malacatín, Casa Ciriaco, La Bola, Botín, Casa Labra, el Café Gijón or Lhardy. There, history and culture of Madrid come together with the pleasure of a great dish, the best way to finish a night in Madrid.

As a curious fact, Madrid hosts the oldest restaurant in the World: Casa Botín.

TAPAS AND EVENTS

If you are an impassionate gourmet, there are many events and performances related to haute cuisine celebrated in Madrid that you can't afford to miss. Events like Madrid Wines Show, Millésime, the Gourmet Club International Exhibition or the important "Madrid Fusión" Gastronomic Summit, make Madrid the Gastronomy Capital of the World.

There are a lot of areas around the capital where you can taste the best gastronomy of our bars and restaurants. In the Central Area you can have the traditional squid baguette or try tap vermouth and centenary restaurants. La Latina neighbourhood hosts typical and classic taverns, and especially on weekends it becomes one of the most dynamic areas of the capital, as well as Huertas, the Cava Baja and the Plaza de Santa Ana (Santa Ana square). The traditional Chamberí neighbourhood, the gourmet markets like San Miguel, San Antón or San Ildefonso Markets and Platea Madrid are dedicated to national and international gastronomy. In Platea Madrid you will find restaurants, cocktail bars, pastry shops, stores and shows, and it is one of the biggest gastronomic areas in Europe and the most interesting in the World, with 6000 square meters, six Michelin stars and eleven Repsol suns.

GO SHOPPING

Before coming back home you can go shopping. Madrid is the second shopping destination in Europe and one of the most important in the World. You will find pretty much everything you can imagine due to its big and diverse shopping areas.

The famous "Milla de Oro" (Golden Mile) in the Salamanca neighbourhood, is a tourist mandatory visit for luxury shopping. The greatest Spanish fashion firms like Loewe, Amaya Arzuaga, Kina Fernández, Adolfo Domínguez, Ágatha Ruiz de la Prada, Roberto Verino, Manolo Blahnik or Angel Schlesser go hand in hand with international luxury icons such as Chanel, Armani and Valentino. The jewelleres, shoe shops and the most prestigious fashion and complements, as well as art galleries and antique shops make this shopping offering complete. Going shopping around the boutiques and shops in Salamanca neighbourhood is a pleasure for the most elite pockets.

In the central area of the capital you will discover the most traditional products. Craftsmanship, ceramics, metalwork, leather products, hand fans, guitars, Manila shawls, typical “chulapo” caps and the famous espadrilles among others, complement the shopping offers of small shops with centuries of history, as active as on the first opening day.

If you are looking for original, avant-garde, bohemian and the latest fashion trends, you should definitely visit Chueca and Fuencarral. You will find there many small shops for young and transgressor people. The area is framed within the Triball Madrid project, an important commercial and touristic focal point similar to New York’s Soho. One of its main exponents is Fuencarral Market (“Mercado de Fuencarral”), where craftspeople, designers and small traders all around Spain offer different products that are so original that are very difficult to find anywhere else.

If you travel with your family, you can visit any of our shopping malls. Madrid has many of them, and there you can find everything you need: you can have refreshment, have a snack, watch a movie or bowling. You will enjoy a funny and amazing shopping time.

If you want to find small treasures, El Rastro of Madrid is your place. It occupies a great extension of streets between Lavapiés and La Latina, with Cascorro Square as the reference centre. It is only open on Sundays and public holidays from dawn to lunch time. Dig through objects, books, CDs, antiques and collectibles. Later on, you can have an appetizer inside some of the traditional taverns or you can taste creative tapas in one of the fashion establishments. However, El Rastro is not the only flea market and there are many of them all around the city in public places and on determined days. The products for sale are varied: food, clothes, household goods, plants, jewellery, etc. They have always had great public acceptance, since the markets have in the same place a wide variety of items and they have lower prices than traditional shops.
